Dear Sirs:

During the 1980's, I lived through the results of Docket 80-90. As more stations were licensed, existing broadcasters found it more and more difficult to remain profitable. Many did not. Services eroded because broadcasters faced with increasing competition could not afford to serve their communities in the same way that they had in more profitable years.

Now we are faced with the prospect of hundreds of new low power stations flooding the airwaves and our markets. Not only would they further erode the ability of existing broadcasters to remain viable business operations, but we would also face the possibility of interference with our current frequencies.

We urge you to turn down the new FM stations proposal.

Sincerely,

Pat Bryson
Vice President/General Manager
